of Europe, owing to the war situation. No complete was the business disorganization that there already have been many failures, and a perfect epidemic of them was expected when the stricken traders' bills fall due the first of the year.

England, France and Italy being farther than the zone of probable hostilities, were not so hard hit, though they, too, found the season unprofitable.

In Russia, it was said, the government was compelling grain dealers to give up their stocks for barter purposes, while a steady mobilization of troops was in progress. For all that, the air was clearer, and the conviction grew here that a general clash will be avoided.

May Make Fair Bargain. Considering the seriousness of its earlier reverses, it was believed Turkey would make a fair peace bargain. The Turks have been beaten. It was agreed, but the allies have not won. They failed to accomplish what they set out to do—drive the Sultan out of Europe.

Concerning what will become of Albania there was much speculation. With its independence declared, and Ismail Kemal Bey proclaimed as provisional president, the situation there was considered momentarily satisfactory to Austria, as Serbia seems denied the opportunity of securing a foothold in the district. The general impression here was that the country will be allowed to remain nominally independent, really under an Austrian protectorate owing just enough allegiance to Turkey to have the Sultan's favor, and with Serbia entitled to a commercial outlet to the Adriatic by way of Durazzo, as Ismail Kemal Bey, doubtless inspired from Vienna, has already offered.

Bulgarian and Greece were expected to get enough Turkish territory to enable their governments to tell the people they have won. Diplomats said they did not see how Montenegro, having failed to capture Scutari, could expect to get much, though King Nicholas has sent emissaries in hot haste to represent him at the peace negotiations.

Test Mobilization. (Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.)

SUCCESSFUL AGAINST TURKS

General Jankovitch, Serbian general, who occupied Durazzo, the Adriatic seaport, which is the principal base of contention with Austria.

Berlin, November 30.—The mobilization of French troops on the German frontier Thursday night was not a mistake. It was learned here this afternoon. It was a test.

The French War Office wanted to know how the people felt toward Germany.

It was realized, however, that a mobilization, unless satisfactorily explained, would instantly arouse the deepest resentment among the Germans. Accordingly, the incident over, it was represented that a postal clerk's error in transmitting a telegram, had given a chief of gendarmes at a strategic station on the frontier, the mistaken impression that he was to assemble the reserve in the shortest possible time. With the result, it was said, the War Office was delighted. In spite of a violent storm, out of 350 reservists summoned in one village at midnight, 310 had reported by 5 A. M., and the rest before 1 A. M. Then the War Office announced that the whole thing was a mistake. The reservists were sent home and the gendarme chief was locked up, though it was not thought likely here that his imprisonment would last long. The incident also caused a stock market panic.

Nations Getting Together. (Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.) Vienna, November 30.—The government bill obliging the population in mobilization time to hold all vehicles, airplanes, private railways, telephone edifices and industries at the government's disposal, for which remuneration will be made, is not connected with the present crisis. The second government measure announced by the Premier this week prohibiting the export of horses is a deterrent measure aimed at Serbia, whose pretensions to an Adriatic seaboard, Austria peremptorily rejects, while she is ready to give Serbia a purely commercial outlet for her exports and imports on the Albanian or Dalmatian Coast.

The beneficent influence of Russia has terminated the Austro-Serb-Russian newspaper war. The single difference still outstanding is Serbia's obstinacy on the question of an Adriatic seaport. A conference of the ambassadors may tend to solve that by including the Adriatic Coast within the boundaries of autonomous Albania. Pourparlers between Bulgaria and Roumania will begin shortly under the auspices of Austria, who eagerly desires to see both nations united in the bonds of intimate friendship.

A preliminary peace agreement is about being concluded by the negotiators at Tchatalla. Turkey will be allowed to keep Adrianople, and also probably Dedagetch, and therefore have both shores of the Dardanelles, but the question of the possession of Dedagetch is still under discussion. Turkey will certainly lose Salonica.

Will Reopen Fight. Washington, November 30.—A reopening of thought in a vault at the Capitol on colored oleomargarine is set for next week in the House. Representative Leever, of South Carolina, who has a measure pending to reduce the tax from 10 to 2 cents, stated to-day that the Committee on Agriculture would take up the measure late next week.

LAST TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO DEAD

Funeral Services Over Remains of Dr. Smith Held at Lynchburg.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Lynchburg, Va., November 30.—In the presence of the members of the faculty, members of the board of trustees and the student body the first part of the funeral services of Dr. W. W. Smith were held in the Randolph-Macon Woman's College chapel this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at the close of which the body was taken to Court Street Methodist Church, and at 2 o'clock in the presence of an immense concourse of people, who were there to pay a last and loving tribute to the memory of the deceased.

Following these two services the body was placed in a vault at Spring Hill, where it will rest pending a decision as to the final place of interment.

The following members of the board of trustees of the Randolph-Macon system were present: John P. Pettyjohn, Dr. W. W. Lear, of Bedford City; Dr. W. H. Edwards, the new president of the Lynchburg District; Rev. R. M. Chandler and Edward P. Sheffer.

Dr. T. McN. Simpson, another member, although in the city, was unable to be present on account of being confined by a severe case of the grip at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winfree on the college campus.

A quartet composed of Lewis Campbell, D. T. Walker, J. R. Ford and Pinkett Martin sang "The Christian's Good Night" at the cemetery.

The active pall-bearers were John B. Pettyjohn, Dr. N. A. Patton, Professor E. H. Sturges, Jr., Dr. B. W. Arnold, Jr., Dr. A. W. Terrell and E. F. Sheffer. The honorary pall-bearers were T. M. Terry, Walter E. Addison, John Victor, George E. Caskie, William King, Jr., Dr. E. A. Craighill, Dr. R. B.

Dr. Hartman Recalls Cures Made By Old-Time Pe-ru-na

DR. S. B. HARTMAN.

I have been practicing medicine since 1855. Most of that time I have been using Pe-ru-na as my principal remedy. So many unexpected recoveries have been made by those for whom I have prescribed Pe-ru-na that it would take a large book to contain them all. They keep coming up to my mind one by one. Whether on my farm, or at home, whether playing with my grandchildren or conducting my large office business, these incidents of old-time Pe-ru-na cures steal in upon my memory unawares.

Take, for instance, a single case from the extensive list of similar cases in my diary of cases treated, as an example of the cures that Pe-ru-na used to make.

Mrs. T. S. Eberlein (then of Pittsburg, Pa., afterwards of Keokuk, Iowa), during the year 1882 began to develop unusual symptoms of catarrh of the lungs. Cough was one of the first symptoms, which gradually grew worse in spite of all treatment. The sputa, at first slight, became abundant and purulent, occasionally streaked with blood. A rapid loss of flesh and flagging appetite filled her relatives with forebodings. The hectic flush, night sweats, and suppression of the menses, left no doubt as to the nature of her disease.

From the first physicians had been employed. Cough medicines, tonics, cod liver oil and stimulants were resorted to by her physicians without avail.

The first physician employed was Dr. Williams, Penn Ave., Pittsburg; Dr. Gilford, of Allegheny City, was next called; and then Dr. Riggs, of Pittsburg.

During this history of conflict with this terrible disease frequent consultations were held, but nothing checked the steady progress of her malady. Not a doubt had existed in the minds of her physicians or friends as to the nature of her disease, nor as to its fatal termination. The repeated examinations of her lungs indicated the rapid strides with which she was nearing the end.

Her physicians were honored members of the medical fraternity, in whom Mrs. Eberlein's husband and family had perfect confidence. And the sorrow with which they listened to their decision that they had exhausted everything known to relieve her, during her illness, repeatedly expressed by Mrs. Eberlein, but it was regarded as the merest whim and, as they were employed the best medical talent the city afforded, no attention was paid to it. At last she became so weak and emaciated that an attendant was constantly at hand to lift her during the terrible coughing spells to which she was subjected, and which were frequently followed by alarming sinking spells, during which she was often thought to be dying.

It was during one of these frightful paroxysms when her husband was supporting her tenderly and vainly trying to palliate her sufferings that she again expressed her belief that if Dr. Hartman were sent for he could relieve her.

Willing to indulge her in any wish, as she was thought to be dying by all, I was immediately sent for, but being very busy, was not able to respond until late in the evening of the afternoon on which I was sent for. It was not expected that she would survive until I could reach her home, but hope kept her alive until I came.

It would be difficult to imagine a more discouraging case for a doctor to undertake to cure than Mrs. Eberlein's at the moment of my first visit. Let me describe her symptoms.

A drawn, pinched countenance of a deathly pallor, and livid lips. Sunken, fixed, staring eyes, with a glassy brightness. Wasted in body to a mere shadow. Pulse wholly imperceptible at the wrist, but the heart feebly fluttering. Extremities cold and clammy, finger nails blue, breathing hurried and gasping, utterly exhausted and hopeless. It certainly seemed as if I had only arrived in time to see her die.

The first question of the distracted husband was, "Is my wife dying?" But my undaunted faith in the efficacy of Pe-ru-na is such, even in this awful emergency, that I replied:

"Sir, you and I are now in the verge of life; it may happen that this lady will live to see us buried."

After a hasty examination of the case I prescribed Pe-ru-na to be taken every hour, and if she was not better in the morning to let me know.

It was two weeks before I again heard from the case, when the husband entered my office, radiant with joy, and, not waiting for the usual salutations, exclaimed:

"Doctor, my wife is well!"

"Oh, no, you mean she is better," I replied. But the enthusiastic husband insisted that his wife was "well and the heartiest eater at the table."

The fact was that, while she had made astonishing improvement, she was obliged to continue the use of Pe-ru-na many months. In less than a year she was entirely well, and has remained so since, and her treatment from the beginning to the end was Pe-ru-na and nothing else.

To have seen her at the time of the first visit it would have been impossible to believe that any medicine or other earthly power could have saved her.

This case is no more unusual or extraordinary than a great many others that my list contains, not only of diseases of the lungs, but of all mucous surfaces.

Cases of dyspepsia, diarrhea and dysentery which have withstood all other treatment have yielded at once by the use of Pe-ru-na.

Numerous cases of Bright's disease of the kidneys, acute catarrh and rheumatism, female diseases, that had been treated locally for years, were instantly relieved and finally recovered by Pe-ru-na. In short, every disease affecting any mucous membrane of the body that has not already gone beyond all earthly help, frequently makes astonishing recovery.

As a general tonic and appetizer Pe-ru-na has no superior. It is a certain remedy for worn-out or tired-out human nature. Cases of nervous prostration, loss of vitality and sleeplessness are all treated by Pe-ru-na with such extraordinary success that wherever it is used it ranks as the greatest tonic known.

In future articles I will recall other cases of similar interest. In doing so I shall not allow the slightest exaggeration or fiction to mar the realism which the simple facts alone give to any narrative of this kind.

Pe-ru-na, Man-a-lin and Lo-o-plin manufactured by the Pe-ru-na Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Many persons inquire for The Old-time Pe-ru-na. They want the Pe-ru-na that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Pe-ru-na is now called Katarno. If your druggist or dealer does not keep it, for sale write the Katarno Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.

tion and the Chamber of Commerce, magistrate. After hearing the evidence, the magistrate remanded them for further inquiry. As he informed them of this, Joyce Locke removed her shoes and hurled one of them at the magistrate's head, and then threw the other at the head of the clerk of the court. She was promptly committed for contempt.

The second outrage was committed by one of the members of a party of suffragettes who were waiting at the railroad station for the departure of Chancellor Lloyd-George. The woman mistook the officer for the Chancellor in disguise and lashed him across the face with a heavy horsewhip. She was arrested.

The members present were Messrs. Kibbe, Watts, Payne, Carrill, Knight and Wilson, of the Board of Aldermen, and Victor, Manley, Montague, Pettyjohn, Hancock, Biddle, Montague, Sheffer, Christian and Acree, of the Common Council.

Tribute from Students.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Ashland, Va., November 30.—Classes were suspended for the day at Randolph-Macon College today as a mark of respect to the late Dr. William Waugh Smith, chancellor of the Randolph-Macon system of schools and president of the Randolph-Macon Woman's College, at Lynchburg, who died yesterday morning. At 2 o'clock in the college chapel at Ashland, at the same time as the funeral services in Lynchburg.

The services were opened with one of Dr. Smith's favorite hymns, and Dr. S. C. Hatcher led in prayer. Resolutions which were drawn up by the student body of the college were read by E. P. Nicholson and similar resolutions of the faculty were read by Dr. Hall Carter. Dr. W. W. Young, a very close friend of the late Dr. Smith, and who was formerly connected with the college as chaplain and professor, delivered an eulogy. Dr. Acree, chaplain of the college, read from the Scriptures, and Dr. Hatcher asked the benediction.

Palmer—Trustall. Emporia, Va., November 30.—Miss Irene Clyde Trustall, of North Emporia, was married yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride in Southampton Avenue to Pittsburgh Lee Palmer, of Creedmore, N. C. Rev. J. Sidney Peters, of the local Methodist Church, performed the ceremony. The couple left for a bridal trip to New York. They will reside at Creedmore, N. C., where Mr. Palmer is engaged in the lumber business.

Engagement Announced. Ashland, Va., November 30.—John Friday announced the engagement of his daughter, Emma Lee, to Floyd Tucker, Jr., the wedding to take place at high noon on December 15. Miss Friday is a sister of the late Dr. W. W. Smith, and is very popular in Ashland society. Mr. Tucker is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tucker, and he holds a responsible position with a Richmond manufacturing firm.

THROWSHER SHOE AT JUDGE'S HEAD

Aberdeen, Scotland, November 20.—Militant suffragettes to-day brought about two scenes of extreme violence in which a woman's shoes and a horse-whip were used as weapons.

The first outbreak occurred when three of the women, Joyce Locke, Fanny Parker and Mary Pollock, who had been caught last evening in possession of explosives in the Music Hall where Chancellor Lloyd-George was to speak, were brought up before the
